

CONTRIBUTORS

Alper Başer – policy of the Ottoman Empire and Crimean Khanate in the Eastern Europe’s political history; associate professor at the History Department of the University of Afyon Kocatepe in Afyonkarahisar, Turkey;
e-mail: baseralperhidayet@gmail.com

Mikołaj Getka-Kenig – politics and architecture of the 18th–20th centuries, heritage studies; assistant professor at the Institute for the History of Science, Polish Academy of Sciences, director of the Castle Museum in Sandomierz;
e-mail: m.getka.kenig@gmail.com

Marcin Grulkowski – source criticism, late medieval codicology, chancelleries of Hanseatic cities, finances of Hanseatic cities in the late Middle Ages, history of banking; assistant professor at the Tadeusz Manteuffel Institute of History, Polish Academy of Sciences; email: margrul@interia.pl

Paweł Gut – modern history, history of Pomerania, history of the Prussian state, archival science; archivist at the State Archives in Szczecin, professor of modern history and archival science at the Historical Institute of the University of Szczecin;
pgut@szczecin.ap.gov.pl

Agnieszka Jakuboszczak – 18th-century studies, women’s history, family and education studies, Polish-French relations; professor at the Department of History, Adam Mickiewicz University, Poznań; e-mail: jakubosz@amu.edu.pl

Danuta Janicka – legal and constitutional history, criminal law history, history of penology and legal theories, history of Pomerania; professor at the Department of History of Legal and Political Thought and German Law, Faculty of Law and Administration, Nicolaus Copernicus University, Toruń; e-mail: janicka@umk.pl

Jan Jelinowski – medieval history, Persianate historiography and the Mongol Empire, digital humanities; PhD student at the Polish Academy of Sciences and the University of Strasburg; e-mail: jan.jelinowski@protonmail.com

Edmund Kizik – early modern history, social history of culture, the history of Gdańsk and the Baltic region, culture transfer in the Polish-German borderlands; professor at the Tadeusz Manteuffel Institute of History, Polish Academy of Sciences, and at the University of Gdańsk; e-mail: edmund.kizik@ug.edu.pl

Stanisław Knapowski – intellectual history, history of ideas and history of art, visual history, history of architecture, urban studies; PhD candidate at the Department of History, Adam Mickiewicz University, Poznań; e-mail: stanislaw.knapowski@amu.edu.pl

Jerzy Kochanowski – 20th-century social and cultural history of Poland and East-Central Europe, Polish-German relations, 20th-century forced migrations; professor at the Institute of Art History, University of Warsaw; e-mail: j.p.kochanowski@uw.edu.pl

Sławomir Kościelak – Reformation and Counter-Reformation in Royal Prussia, social history of early modern times: processes of social transformation inside modern-ages society in Poland between the 16th and 19th centuries, studies on pauperisation of old feudal elites and creation of modern society; professor at the Faculty of History, University of Gdańsk; e-mail: slawomir.koscielak@ug.edu.pl

Marta Łukaszewicz – representation of clergymen in Russian literature, Christian socialism, literary and journalistic work of Nikolai Leskov; assistant professor at the Institute of Russian Studies, University of Warsaw; visiting researcher at the Department of German and Slavic Philologies at Universidad Complutense de Madrid; email: marta.lukaszewicz@uw.edu.pl

Aleksander Łupienko – cultural history of the 19th-century urban space in (East) Central Europe, cultural history of architecture and conservation; assistant professor at the Tadeusz Manteuffel Institute of History, Polish Academy of Sciences; e-mail: aleksander.lupienko@ihpan.edu.pl

Marek Radziwon – history and culture of the Soviet Union in the 20th-century, history of totalitarian systems; assistant professor at the Centre for East European Studies, Faculty of Oriental Studies, University of Warsaw; e-mail: m.radziwon@uw.edu.pl

Anna Szyba – cultural studies, Jewish history, Jewish schools, Yiddish language; PhD student at Freie Universität Berlin; e-mail: szyba.ania@gmail.com

Jacek Wijaczka – history of Ducal and Royal Prussia, witch trials in early modern Europe, and the history of Jews in the Old Polish period; professor at the Institute of History and Archival Studies, Nicolaus Copernicus University in Toruń; e-mail: jawi@umk.pl

Marcin Wilk – social and cultural history of the 19th and 20th centuries, girlhood and gender history, animal-human history; PhD candidate at the Tadeusz Manteuffel Institute of History, Polish Academy of Sciences; e-mail: marcyn.wilk@gmail.com

Tomasz Wiślicz – history of culture and social history of early modern Poland, theory of history; associate professor at the Tadeusz Manteuffel Institute of History, Polish Academy of Sciences; e-mail: twislicz@ihpan.edu.pl